A Prayer for the Financially Hurting

God, You know what we're going through. And we're thankful You can take the hardest circumstances and turn them around for our good and Your glory.

You can restore all things—so we're asking You to restore lost jobs, finances, relationships, resources, and hopes.

Show anyone struggling financially that You hold them close, and surround them with people who will help them through this time. Please meet their immediate needs as they trust You for long-term solutions.

Turn fear into faith as Your good plans for them unfold. As they wait on You, renew their hope and give them the courage to dream again. Remind them of their value, and fill them with peace.

Our God, come and do what only You can do.

In Jesus' Name, Amen.

Cartoon of the week has been sent in from Sarah Steele

As we look around at our world right now, there is so much that can cause our hearts to be overwhelmed with sorrow. The word 'hope' in this verse is 'qavah' in Hebrew. It means to expect and to eagerly long for...

This Psalm is an invitation from a man who knew hardship and difficulty, but he also knew what it meant to run to and wait on the Lord. So no matter the situation, let's take this invitation to eagerly and expectantly look to him.

Over this period of surreal change I confess to questioning my faith daily. But daily I come across meditations which challenge my unbelief. The above is one of many to reassure me of God's love and care and sorrow and promise and hope in all that is happening. I pray you find comfort and strength and resilience in God as we move forwards. Ruth

I come to the garden alone while the dew is on the roses, And the voice I hear, falling on my ear, the Son of God discloses. He speaks, and the sound of his voice is so sweet the birds hush their singing. And the melody that he gave to me within my heart is ringing.
